

Micheál Kilcrann was elected to the Council in the Dublin (Primary) constituency. Micheál is a member of the Education and Registration Committees. A native of Rooskey, Co. Roscommon, Micheál is a graduate of Coláiste Mhuire Marino, Mater Dei College of Education and St. Patrick's College in Drumcondra. He is a teacher at St. Patrick's Boys' National School in Drumcondra. He lists multicultural education among his educational interests developing this interest following a teaching elective in Uganda, East Africa in 1998. Micheál spent five years as Diocesan Adviser for Primary Schools in the Archdiocese of Dublin. He is delighted to be a representative for his fellow teachers on the Council. His hope for the Teaching Council is that it will be an effective regulatory body, earning the trust and co-operation of all members of the teaching profession and partners in education.
