

Jerry Cronin was nominated to the Teaching Council to represent the school management bodies at post-primary level, having been nominated by the Joint Managerial Body of Secondary Schools (JMB). Jerry is a member of the Education and Registration Committees. A native of County Cork, Jerry lives in Nenagh, County Tipperary and was formerly Principal of St. Mary's Secondary School in Nenagh. He currently works in the University of Limerick (UL) where he is involved in mentoring and working as a Teaching Practice Tutor. He is an advisor to the National Curriculum Advisory Group of the JMB and represents the JMB on the NCCA's Civic, Social and Political Education Advisory Group and Leaving Certificate Applied Committee. His educational interests include optimising the effectiveness of the Principal and Deputy Principal as a senior leadership team and his hope for the Council is that it will promote teaching as a profession that is of immense importance to individuals and to society.
