

Dr Oliver McGarr | University of Limerick

General Biography

I am based in the School of Education at the University of Limerick. Before joining the University, I worked as a post-primary teacher and as a research assistant on an international research project exploring digital technologies in schools. I have a broad range of research experience in education and working with schools. I have previously worked on several international and national research projects on curriculum innovations in Irish schools. I am also the current project director of the NCCA-funded study exploring the roll-out of the new Junior Cycle Framework. More details on my background are available here: <https://www.ul.ie/soedu/about-us/staff/dr-oliver-mcgarr> and you can view my list of publications here: <https://scholar.google.com/citations?user=X6UamwoAAAAJ&hl=en>